DETAILED ACTION

This office action is in response to an after-final amendment filed 5/6/05. The amendment has been entered. Claim 2 has been cancelled. Claims 1, 3, 10, 14-16 and 25 have been amended. Claims 1 and 3-55 are pending in this application.

EXAMINER'S AMENDMENT

An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with Michael Rosata on June 9, 2005.

The application has been amended as follows:

In claim 31, line 1, the word "claim 25" prior to "where the locating" has been deleted and --claim 29-- has been inserted.

Reasons for Allowance

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: the present invention is drawn to a method for identifying an essential chromosomal gene in a haploid organism. The present invention advances the prior art by design of bacterial artificial chromosome (BAC) that is sensitive to an environmental condition and comprises DNA with 80-100% identity to the chromosomal DNA in the host. The DNA is mutagenized by transposons and the cell assayed in the presence and absence of the environmental condition for essential genes. The method of the invention is most similar to the invention of Sharpe and Nagarajan, US 6,673,567 B2. The difference between the two is that the prior art uses a chromosomal integration vector that cannot replicate autonomously at restrictive conditions such that restrictive conditions drive integration of the vector and disruption of the corresponding gene in the chromosome while the instant application uses BAC as a second copy of the disrupted essential gene. Therefore, according to the instant invention, a method is provided in which cells can be rapidly assayed for disruptions in essential genes.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Conclusion

Claims 1 and 3-55 (now claims 1-54) are allowed.
